Negotiations Among the European

Agreement Between America, England and Japan.

MINISTER WU'S PROTEST

onsequence of Russia and France failing this end, it is asserted, was secured, and upon the initiative of the United States efforts were set on foot to secure not only assurances to the United States, but a definite agreement between the European powers themselves. Such an understanding,

That anything in the shape of a formal treaty between the powers interested in the less formal nature is possible. These negoless formal nature is possible. These nego-tiations followed the request of Secretary Hay upon some of the governments for formal assurance of the continuation of all our treaty rights in Chinese territory. It was not regarded as necessary to go beyond that point, and it is believed that there will be no pecessity for a general there will be no necessity for a general and formal treaty. It would be extremely ifficult to frame any such convention so is to secure the approval of the United States Senate without a protracted struggie, and besides, the effort would be sure to arouse opposition from the considerable ele ment in the United States which is unalter

View in Diplomatic Circles.

View in Diplomatic Circles.

At one of the embassies it was pointed out that the United States was hardly likely to become a party defining the spheres of influence of other powers, while at the same time no sphere of American influence was defined, and up to the present time it has been definitely understood that the United States did not seek any sphere of influence, but merely untrammeled entrance to all Chinese ports. As to the other powers, the view prevailed that they would be quite likely to favor such a comprehensive treaty as the one outlined in the London dispatch, as it carried forward the arrangement between Great Britain and Russia, by which the former secured a likely to become a party defining the spheres of influence of other powers, while the London dispatch, as it carried forward the arrangement between Great Britain and Russia, by which the former secured a sphere of Influence in the Yang Tze valley

Russia, by which the former secured a sphere of influence in the Yang Tze vailey and Russia directed her activities to northeast China.

China Enters a Protest.

"This is about the most refreshing suggestion we have had of late," remarked Mr. Wu, the Chinese minister, referring to the treaty plan. "What, can it be seriously proposed that a document shall be formally drawn up concerning interests in China is a sovereign nation, and when it comes to writing treaties concerning her interests and territory this sovereign nation is quite likely to have considerable to say on the subject. I hardly think any of the great and self-respecting powers would give countenance to a plan such as is outlined. It is as though a party of your neighbors met and agreed how they would occupy your house. One would take the front door, another would select the side door, others would appropriate certain rooms. And all this is without consulting you, the owner of the house. Such a course by individuals would sappropriate certain rooms. And all this is without consulting you, the owner of the house. Such a course by individuals may be quite secure in his residence, it is, of course, all things are possible, and it is difficult to say how far a plan, once entered upon, may proceed. While the individual may be quite secure in his residence, it is, of course, always within the bounds tered upon, may proceed. While the indi-vidual may be quite secure in his residence, it is, of course, always within the bounds of possibility that a band of robbers may arrange to enter the house and carry away the belongings. For that reason it is the part of wisdom for the individual to be on the outlook against such mayes. But it to would not countenance such a course. So that the suggestions of a treaty of this
